The Apocryphal Acts of Paul, Peter, John, Andrew, and ...

The five ancient Apocryphal Acts—John, Paul, Peter, Andrew, and Thomas—were written in the late 2nd to early 3rd centuries. At first, the Apocryphal Acts circulated independently of one another, and scholars caution against attempts to read them as a unit; instead one should try to understand each text on its own terms.

Acts of Peter. The Acts of Peter is one of the earliest of the apocryphal Acts of the Apostles. The majority of the text has survived only in the Latin translation of the Vercelli manuscript, under the title Actus Petri cum Simone. It is mainly notable for a description of a miracle contest between Saint Peter and Simon Magus, and as the first record of the tradition that St. Peter was crucified head-down .

Acts of Peter - Wikipedia

The description of the Lord's Supper as "the breaking of bread" (Acts 2:42,46) is repeated in the Apocryphal Ac and is strictly apposite to the ritual there set forth in which there is frequently no mention of wine in the celebration of the sacrament. In the Ac of Paul the author evidently used the canonical Ac as the framework of his narrative.

The Apocryphal Acts of Paul, Peter, John, Andrew and ...

The Acts of Peter follows patterns typical of late apocryphal accounts of the apostles. It contains descriptions of miracles far "flashier" and more theatrical than those recorded in the biblical gospels or the book of Acts. The Acts of Peter was written no earlier than the end of the second century.
